

“The Data to Policy (D2P) training program aims to bridge the gap between mid to senior level public health professionals in Ministries of Health and policy-makers.

This is done through an intensive mentoring process to develop participants’ skills to write policy briefs.

Each brief is written on self-selected health topics that are of interest to governments and ministries.”