

Training objectives

1. To provide the participants with a basic concept of qualitative research
2. To be able to recognize the important role of qualitative research methods in health care setting
3. To enable prospective researchers to consider the appropriateness of a qualitative methods to their chosen field of investigation
4. To gain knowledge on fundamentals of qualitative research methodologies
5. To understand important ethical issues in qualitative research
6. To provide an opportunity to the participants to undertake qualitative research with the guidance on the designing, collecting data, analysis and presentation of data
7. To enable the participants to conduct qualitative research on their own